

Holy Rosary School.

A program of exceptional merit was given by the Holy Rosary School, Monroe City, Mo., at the opera house Tuesday evening 28th inst., under the auspices of the Sisters of St. Domini. The school orchestra opened with a very nice overture and rendered selections during the entertainment. The acting of the pupils and the drills they performed showed skilful training. The Rainbow and National drills were very well performed. The Minims were most attractive. Masters Tom Yates and Oscar Pike and the other young men performed their parts well. The singing was well sustained. Miss Anna K. with her fine Alto voice with pleasing effect. Misses B. Hays, H. Spaulding, B. Mudd and Oorder Hoare were the accompanists. Miss Hattie Spaulding delivered the Valedictory with good enunciation and full of pathos and was much appreciated. Father Collins, of Shelbyville, delivered the address of the evening with pleasing effect. There were also present Fr. Cunningham assistant at Holy Rosary Church, Fr. Cooney, of Indian Creek, Fr. Stephen Kendrick C. P., Fr. Ernest, of St. Pius. Fr. Mullen conferred the diplomas, congratulated the Sisters and children for their good work, thanked the parents and friends for their interest in Catholic education. was well pleased with the great success of Holy Rosary School and invited all to have their children educated and trained up by the good Sisters whose work has gained such well merited approval all classes.

Two Sides

If the anti-Folk press of Missouri continues to make war on the governor and every prominent democrat in the state who believes with the governor, in enforcing the laws, it will be a waste of time and money for our party to hold a primary to select a state ticket, for if their foul hatred of Folk and his friends continues the republicans will elect their ticket as certain as fate. This is no joke. —Paris Appeal.

The Appeal should have said: If you do not assist us in giving Folk what He and We want, we will charge you with Democracy's defeat.

And it should have said: At the last election 50,000 'prominent' Democrats refused to vote for Joey by staying at home and that his election was due to the 8 per cent Republican vote.

If Republicans elect the next state ticket it will be because "fool" hardiness attempts to cram a man rejected by the Democrats, down Democratic throats.

The Ideal Business Man

He is above all, a man of consequence; he has a sacred regard for the principles of justice; he deceives no customer by lying; he tells the truth and prospers; his is the one-price store; his word is better than another man's oath; though ever so rich he owns no wicked dollar; all is openly, honestly earned. He is just with the weak as well as the strong; he takes advantage of no one; his counting room or store room is the sanctuary of fair dealing and justice; justice, industry and honor go hand in hand with him; he gets rich, but no one becomes poorer because he is rich; he does not boast of nor advertise his honesty; there is no need, for men see it; his profession of religion is not colored by any thought of gain; he consecrates his life and his business to the service of God and his fellow man; he looks out for the welfare of his employees; if they are his help, he is theirs; he helps the weak to help themselves; he is, in fine, a great moral force in the community—a saint in trade.—M. M. Sheedy in Louisville Times.

When It's Wicked.

Surgeon-General R. M. O'Reilly was talking about the army canteen, in consequence of which, he holds, intemperance has increased among soldiers.

"The canteen," he said, "was only harmful when it was badly administered. You know the dancing story?"

"A young man of sober views said to a pretty girl:

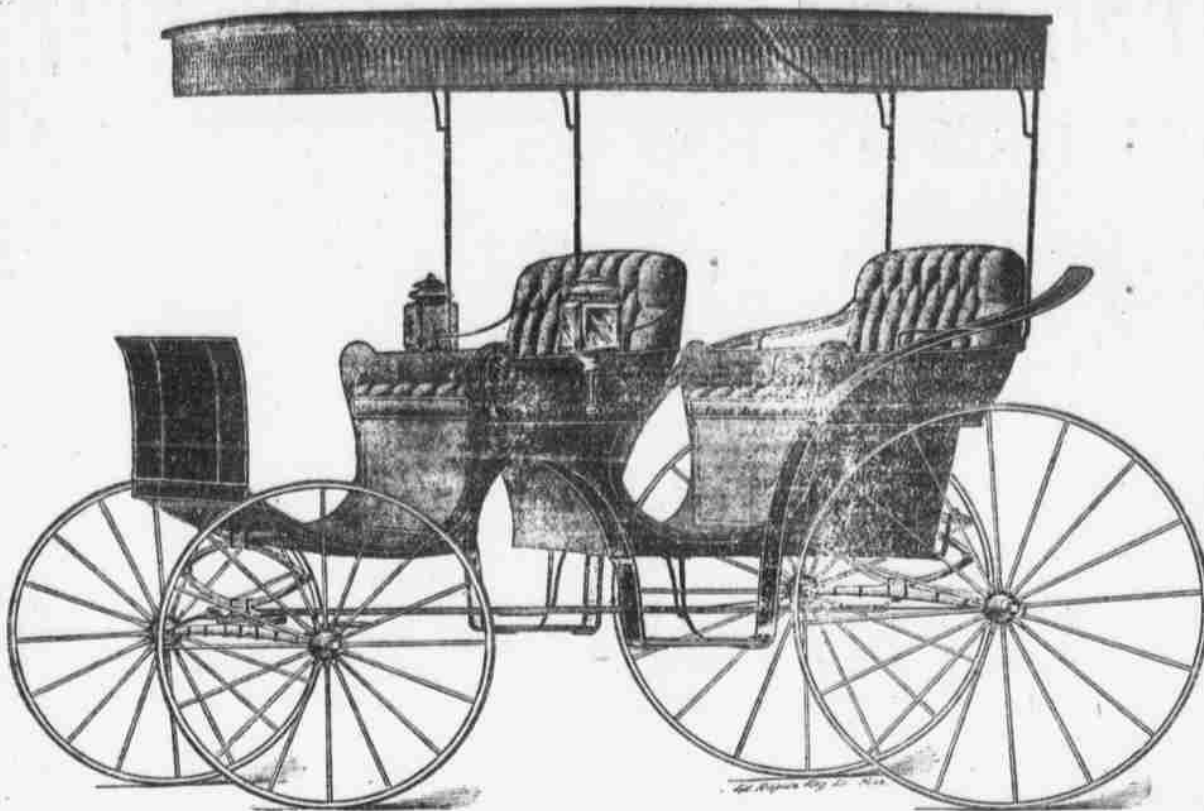

"Do you think dancing is wicked?"

"Yes," said she; "if one dances as badly as you do."

W. H. Saunders, father of L. C. Saunders, was very ill at his home near Lakenan, Monday. Cass was called to his bedside expecting the worst. As he is a valuable gentleman to any community, it is hoped he will regain his usual health.

Monroe Anderson has returned from Pittsburg, Pa., where he has spent nearly a year in a grocery house. After a nice long visit with the homefolks he expects to go west.

THE WISE MAN THINKS

In buying a buggy the wise man thinks more of the service to be rendered than of the few dollars difference in price between a cheap shoddy article and a really meritorious one. "Quality is remembered long after price is forgotten."

The name "John Deere" on a buggy stands for the same high quality that it does on a plow, and no purchaser can afford to buy a buggy whose chief recommendation is low price. The Deere buggies are good buggies and are always worth the price asked. Buy a Deere and be contented and satisfied that you have secured full value for the dollars invested.

Yours truly,

A. JAEGER

Extra Session No. 2.

Jefferson City, May 24.—The desire of Governor Folk to formulate a dramshop issue for himself during the two-handed fight he is now carrying on for the Senate and the presidency, will probably result in another extra session of the General Assembly.

The dramshop legislation of the extra session just closed was satisfactory to temperance advocates, but not to Governor Folk. It has become evident to him and to his advisers that the chief executive did not get much in the way of glory out of his dramshop and excise bills during the extra session. The prime object in the Governor's operations being to manufacture political capital, the session was considered by him and his friends to be a failure in so far as it failed to "soak the brewers."

Such temperance legislation as was enacted, came either without the Governor's aid or after he had received several pointed intimations to keep his hands off. This was the case with the Humphrey dramshop bill. The Governor first urged this measure, then used it as a club to get the excise bill through, and finally when it had been signified to him that the bill would fare better without his interference, was passed in a modified form. The temperance people who were urging the passage of the act went home satisfied with the progress made, declaring that the assembly had given them a good bill. The Governor's excise bill was considered by the majority of the members of the assembly as a persistent imposition upon good sense and good nature and they killed it.

The defeat has rankled in the Governor's bosom. This is no secret, although the chief executive has attempted to put a cheerful face upon the matter,

Now he wants to try the whole thing over again and is consulting with his friends as to the advisability of calling another extra session this fall or next spring.

J. R. Howey, the promoter of our Chautauqua, has his ticket sellers at work in Kahoka, Unionville and Canton, Mo., and are selling at the rate of one hundred season tickets a day, two sellers at each place. They average fifty tickets a piece a day. The program at our Chautauqua, while not the same talent all the way through is much the same and many of the most able speakers are the same, and that that is different is just as good. The sellers will be here soon to canvas for tickets. Mr. Howey is well pleased with the success every place the canvas is being made. Let every body keep in touch with this good work and respond when called upon for season tickets. Full program and detailed explanation will be given on large circulars before canvas begins for tickets.

Illinois newspapers are supposed to be most competent to discuss Illinois affairs and the Peoria Herald-Transcript thus comments upon a recent high financial coup by the latest involuntary member of the White House Ananias club: "It is worthy of note that the railroad whose attorney is making the wildest outcry against the Illinois two-cent law is the one which was milked of $60,000,000 by Harriman in order to buy western roads. Thus do we pay for high finance."

Victor Hagan said, after hiding a good Monroe dinner, a fellow can get something to eat in a Monroe restaurant, but darned if he can in Paris.

Fire No 2

About 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon Ambrose Nolen heard an unearthly din being made by some ladies in the south part of town, trying to hive some bees.

Their dish pans and spoons made a clatter and a locomotive on the Katy furnished the smoke, so he jumped to his feet and the conclusion that there was a fire somewhere—and there was in the locomotive fire box—so he hit the grit and split the middle of Vine street yelling, ring the big bell.

Excitement is contagious so some one not waiting to learn the whereabouts of the fire, jerked the cords and started the brazen throat of the bell to raising pandemonium.

False alarm, bees, women, pans a Katy locomotive and Ambrose.

Batty-Proctor.

The good news from Des Arc, Ark, is; George W. Proctor, one of the best young men Monroe ever sent out into the world, was married to Miss Lizzie Batty, one of Arkansas' prettiest and most amiable as well as lovely young women.

George has been engaged in the lumber business at Des Arc for more than a year and he has found love among the roses as well as a good business in that southern country.

Good luck for George, because he richly deserves it.

McKinley.

Mrs. Ida Saxton McKinley, relict of President McKinley, has passed quietly away at her home, Canton, Ohio.

The funeral services yesterday were plain and simple, such as might be held over any noble christian woman.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Mudd of Indian Creek Township, have been visiting their son James Mudd.
